A NEW BOOK BY JOSEPH M. JACOWITZ

YOU THINK YOU KNOW JESUS BUT WHAT IF YOU'RE WRONG?

The Terrible Danger of Knowing About Christ
Without Knowing Him

A SEARCHING INVITATION TO EXAMINE OUR FAITH

You can know the language of Christianity, understand Christian teaching, and spend years in church without truly knowing the Savior. That is a sobering possibility. This book asks us to face it honestly, not by dismissing sound doctrine, but by asking whether the truth we know has reached our hearts. Knowing about Christ and knowing Christ are not the same thing.

The question is not whether we have a perfect Christian life. It is whether our confidence rests in Christ Himself or in something we have done: a prayer we repeated, a decision we remember, a religious upbringing, or a record of church involvement. This book calls us away from false assurance and toward repentance, living faith, and the new birth that only God can give.

QUESTIONS WORTH ASKING OURSELVES

1. Am I trusting Christ Himself, or am I trusting my knowledge about Him?

2. What gives me confidence that I belong to Christ: His saving grace or my religious record?

3. When Scripture exposes my sin, do I repent, or do I look for a way to excuse it?

4. Do I desire Christ Himself, or mainly the comfort and benefits I associate with Christianity?

5. Is there evidence of a changed heart: love for Christ, concern for holiness, and love for others?

6. Am I willing to let God's Word examine the assurance I have taken for granted?

Please invite everyone you know who thinks he or she is a Christian to listen. Share this with family, friends, fellow church members, and pastors. These are not questions to reserve for someone else. Each of us needs to consider them before God.
